Labrador Wrong For Idaho
Idaho Families Can't Afford Raul's Liberal Plans

Coeur d'Alene, ID – On Monday, Senator Mike Jorgenson (R-Hayden) called on Raul Labrador to withdraw from the 1st Congressional race.

“Raul Labrador is an immigration attorney and admits to defending illegal immigrants in his law practice. He has been on retainer as an immigration attorney to the Idaho industries that support a “free flow of labor across America’s sovereign borders” while at the same time serving as an Idaho State Representative. Labrador has defended individuals who have smuggled illegal immigrants into the United States and who have committed document fraud. He voted to give illegal immigrants Idaho taxpayer funded benefits, supported several Congressional bills that would grant the precious gift of citizenship to people who are residing in our country illegally and has fought to keep illegal immigrants in Idaho by refusing to support a bill with mandatory employment verification,” Jorgenson said. “His pro-illegal immigrant stances are wrong for Idaho taxpayers and Idaho’s unemployed.”

Jorgenson continued, “In this economy Idaho families can’t afford Labrador’s liberal plans. Illegal immigrants are costing Idaho taxpayers approximately $200 million per year—more than the Idaho state budget deficit. Labrador will represent the industries in Idaho who rely on a constant flow of illegal aliens for their work force.”

“We need someone in Congress who will vote to uphold federal immigration law and deny any path to citizenship to those who have entered and resided in the United States and Idaho illegally. Raul Labrador will act against the will of the citizens of Idaho if elected at the expense of Idaho taxpayers and Idaho’s unemployed,” concluded Jorgenson.
