FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

October 8, Boise. The Labrador for Idaho campaign today proudly released its latest campaign contribution figures; one week before the Federal Election Commission requires their publication. Final and official figures will be released within the FEC mandated number of days, but the report will show that a sum of over $250,000 in monetary and in-kind contributions were raised.

Statement from Raul Labrador: "I want to thank everyone who made these generous donations to my campaign; this is yet more proof that my candidacy has all the momentum in this race. These donations will allow me to deliver the message of limited government, lower taxes, repealing Obamacare and getting government off the backs of small businesses. These are the values the people of Idaho want sent to Washington, DC."

Labrador continued, "I am particularly proud that I received over 1,100 individual donations and that so many of the people that made them are every day Idahoans."

The Labrador for Idaho campaign has now received more than $525,000 in total contributions.
