

Jeff Tyler to seek Representative Seat in the new 3rd District

Home Builder and Republican Activist Jeff Tyler to file for election to Idaho House of Representatives District 3 Seat A

Kootenai County — February 24, 2012— Home builder and Republican activist Jeff Tyler will file Monday for election to Idaho House of Representatives Seat A, a district containing Post Falls, Rathdrum and southeast Kootenai County. Tyler, in his first run for public office, will seek a two-year term to the seat currently held by Rep. Bob Nonini, who announced he is running for the Senate.

Tyler, 52, is a long-time Republican and conservative activist as a founder and 1st Vice President of the Kootenai County Reagan Republicans and a founder of the Panhandle Pachyderm Club. In 2009 Tyler became well known as the campaign manager for Republican Jim Brannon in his campaign against Democrat Mike Kennedy for the Coeur d'Alene City Council.

A resident of Kootenai County since 1994, Tyler lives with his wife of 25 years, Pam, on Harbor Island. Jeff and Pam have 2 grown sons, Kenny and Keith. They run home building and property management small businesses. Because of his involvement in building and renting homes, Tyler said "In this economy, we have helped many people struggling to pay their rent and still have the money left to heat their homes, especially among seniors. That is why I am so passionate about holding the line on fees and property taxes that burden businesses, homeowners or that must be passed on to renters.”

Tyler served on the Kootenai County Flood Committee which developed the first Flood Plan in Idaho. He is also represents Precinct 64 on the Kootenai County Republican Central Committee.

Tyler also works as a part-time school bus driver and has a keen interest in Idaho’s education system. “From this seat I hope to continue the fight for education reform in Idaho that was the hallmark of Bob Nonini’s service in the House. The children I take to school every day, and all the children of Idaho, deserve a great education and I will work for them in Boise.”

He is excited about joining the what he calls “one of the state’s best legislative teams” which has consisted of retiring Senator Jim Hammond and Representatives Frank Henderson and Bob Nonini. “These gentleman have been on the forefront of asserting our state's primacy on various issues and getting federal government meddling out of our lives and businesses. Out of great respect and admiration for them and the work they have accomplished for us, I feel it is my duty and privilege to help carry on their efforts.”

Jeff Tyler to seek Representative Seat in the new 3rd District

Home Builder and Republican Activist Jeff Tyler to file for election to Idaho House of Representatives District 3 Seat A

Kootenai County — February 24, 2012— Home builder and Republican activist Jeff Tyler will file Monday for election to Idaho House of Representatives Seat A, a district containing Post Falls, Rathdrum and southwest Kootenai County. Tyler, in his first run for public office, will seek a two-year term to the seat currently held by Rep. Bob Nonini, who announced he is running for the Senate.

Tyler, 52, is a long-time Republican and conservative activist as a founder and 1st Vice President of the Kootenai County Reagan Republicans and a founder of the Panhandle Pachyderm Club. In 2009 Tyler became well known as the campaign manager for Republican Jim Brannon in his campaign against Democrat Mike Kennedy for the Coeur d'Alene City Council.

A resident of Kootenai County since 1994, Tyler lives with his wife of 25 years, Pam, on Harbor Island. Jeff and Pam have 2 grown sons, Kenny and Keith. They run home building and property management small businesses. Because of his involvement in building and renting homes, Tyler said "In this economy, we have helped many people struggling to pay their rent and still have the money left to heat their homes, especially among seniors. That is why I am so passionate about holding the line on fees and property taxes that burden businesses, homeowners or that must be passed on to renters.”

Tyler served on the Kootenai County Flood Committee which developed the first Flood Plan in Idaho. He is also represents Precinct 64 on the Kootenai County Republican Central Committee.

Tyler also works as a part-time school bus driver and has a keen interest in Idaho’s education system. “From this seat I hope to continue the fight for education reform in Idaho that was the hallmark of Bob Nonini’s service in the House. The children I take to school every day, and all the children of Idaho, deserve a great education and I will work for them in Boise.”

He is excited about joining the what he calls “one of the state’s best legislative teams” which has consisted of retiring Senator Jim Hammond and Representatives Frank Henderson and Bob Nonini. “These gentleman have been on the forefront of asserting our state's primacy on various issues and getting federal government meddling out of our lives and businesses. Out of great respect and admiration for them and the work they have accomplished for us, I feel it is my duty and privilege to help carry on their efforts.”