

Patrick Jacobs' obituary

By Tracy Green (his cousin)

Patrick Jacobs, 42, of Hayden Idaho, passed away from a "cardiac event" on Sunday, October 26, 2014. Born in Spokane on April 11, 1972, Patrick grew up in Coeur d'Alene and is survived by his mother; Patty Hall, father; Bob Jacobs, step father; Gary Hall, two step sisters; Kara Parkman and Elana Hall-Emerson, 5 nieces and nephews who he cherished, along with several aunt's, uncles, and cousins. Patrick ("Tracket") is preceded in death by both sets of grandparents and his beloved cousin, Matthew English.

Often known as OrangeTV, Patrick has been a writer and blogger for The Spokesman Review, Get Out! North Idaho, and Huckleberries. His candid and often saucy reviews put him on the cutting edge of music, fashion, food and more. Deeply rooted in the Cda community, he often wrote about local establishments with his opinions both widely read and highly respected. Steeped in honor, his writing like his life reflected humor and a heart felt message.

Patrick has been dubbed the 'music idol' due to his exceeding knowledge and all the time love for music. He enjoyed making the trek to Seattle to see some of his favorite bands from the 80's, most recently, Blonde and Hart. Music is something Patrick has left us with and a place where he can always be found.

Rainbow was Patrick's favorite color and Christmas his favorite holiday. He tended bar at Mik's, his most favorite night time haunt, and was known by friends and family there as 'GingerBear' due to his shockingly red hair and wonderful, teddy bear hugs. Patrick often championed those without a voice, his discerning spirit loved deeply and his roomy soul made everyone feel welcome. He will be sorely missed by all who knew and loved him.

Services provided though English Funeral Chapel to be held on Saturday, November 1, 2014, 2:00pm at Trinity Lutheran Church, 812 N. 5th St. Cda, ID.
