Zags fall to Buckeyes when late shots don't

PITTSBURGH — Gonzaga clawed back from a 10-point deficit to forge a tie and somehow had a Consol Energy Center crowd roaring despite a preponderance of Ohio State scarlet in the stands.

Robert Sacre waved his arms in the middle of the Bulldogs' zone defense, asking for more noise. The game was there for the taking, and momentum seemed to be on Gonzaga's side.

But it was the second-seeded Buckeyes who made the game-deciding shots and key free throws. No. 10 Gonzaga missed five consecutive shots, including Kevin Pangos' 3-pointer that rattled in and out, and Ohio State escaped with a 73-66 third-round NCAA men's basketball tournament victory in front of 18,588 fans Saturday.

"That's what this tournament is all about, those big runs and making those late shots," said Bulldogs freshman guard Gary Bell Jr., sounding wise beyond his years. "When we tied it up I thought we were going to surge through, but it was a game of runs and Ohio State made the last one."

Elias Harris' 3-pointer completed Gonzaga's comeback from a 58-48 deficit, knotting the score at 61. The Buckeyes used a pair of low-post buckets from sophomore forward Jared Sullinger, who had been unable to get untracked for most of the second half, and made 8 of 11 free throws in the last 3:35 to hold off the Bulldogs.

Sullinger connected on two 5-footers over taller defenders, and his pair of free throws with 33.5 seconds left gave Ohio State a 68-61 lead. At the other end, Harris missed a 3 and Pangos, who made his first shot attempt before missing 10 of his last 12, was off target on the next two possessions.

Cougars get set for spring football

PITTSBURGH — In the walk-in closet at Consol Energy Center where the Gonzaga Bulldogs changed clothes Saturday, Robert Sacre sent off one wave of inquisitors and greeted the next.

"Here come the newspaper guys," he said, the fear in his voice reaching new heights of faux, "with the real hard questions — for people who read."

At just about that moment, teammate David Stockton diverted

DesRoches an All-American

WRESTLING: Riverside High School graduate Ryan DesRoches, wrestling for Cal Poly at 174 pounds, lost his final match on a 3-1 decision but the senior still earned All-American honors by placing eighth at the NCAA championships in St. Louis.

DesRoches won his first two matches on Thursday. He lost his quarterfinal before going 1-1 in wrestlebacks on Friday to set up the match for seventh place on Saturday.

Penn State won its second straight NCAA wrestling tournament before the final round, and kept charging.

David Taylor, Ed Ruth and Frank Molinaro wrapped up unbeaten seasons with individual titles and two underdogs were runners-up for the Nittany Lions, who totaled 143 points for a 25 1/2-point cushion over Minnesota.
