

The Risks of an Article V Constitutional Convention

William P. Marshall
Distinguished Professor of Law
University of North Carolina

William (Bill) Marshall has published extensively on the First Amendment, Federal Courts, and Presidential Powers issues and is also a leading expert on judicial selection matters. He teaches Constitutional and First Amendment law.

Wednesday, February 22
Room WW17, Idaho State Capitol
Lecture and Q&A
7:30-8:30 a.m.

Light refreshments served

Prof. Marshall will be introduced by McKay Cunningham, Associate Professor at Concordia University School of Law. Prof. Cunningham teaches Constitutional law. His non-academic legal experience includes time as a staff attorney for the Texas Supreme Court, and clerking for the Eleventh Circuit Federal Court of Appeals. He continues to represent clients before the Texas Supreme Court.

*Profs. Marshall and Cunningham are available for individual and small group lawmaker meetings on Wed, Feb. 22 between 8:30-10:30 a.m.:
McKay Cunningham: mccunningham@cu-portland.edu*

