Khemia is a women-owned, equity-focused cannabis brand founded and led by women. In March, Khemia announced that its craft cannabis products will now be available in Washington.

Khemia Manufacturing is environmentally conscious and founded in 2018 and based in Sacramento. They are on a mission to revive cannabis artistry and preserve cannabis history. The company continues to maintain its core values by partnering with small-batch, social equity qualified growers who practice regenerative farming techniques to promote a change.

Sapphire Tsu, Luna Harvest, and Celestial. It creates organic infused drinks such as Chakra Chia and Cosmic Cocoa, plus signature rose petal pre-rolls. The larger drink line and skin care products.

Additionally, the company has a line of women-specific products currently available in the cannabis market, very few are made for and marketed to women," said Mindy Galloway, CEO. "We're thrilled to bring Khemia's core values to the people of Washington and expand our cannabis community for women. We believe the women of Washington are ready for a strong women-empowered cannabis brand that understands them."

Cannabis, a socially conscious indoor grow based in Renton, to cultivate premium flower for Khemia's brand-high-quality cannabis strains using sustainable growing practices, such as recycling organic soil to community farming programs and water and electricity conservation.

Khemia has partnered with Soulshine to cultivate premium flower for Khemia's brand-high-quality cannabis strains using sustainable growing practices, such as recycling organic soil to community farming programs and water and electricity conservation.

"Among the hundreds of brands and products currently available in the cannabis market, very few are made for and marketed to women," said Mindy Galloway, CEO. "We're thrilled to bring Khemia's core values to the people of Washington and expand our cannabis community for women. We believe the women of Washington are ready for a strong women-empowered cannabis brand that understands them."

Establishes contact. Advertising is an effective method of introducing people to products and services. Before exposure to advertising, only one in five buyers is aware of a company and/or its products. As awareness increases, buyers are more likely to consider making a purchase.

Educates and develops prospects. Consumers prefer to learn more about businesses and products through advertising. It helps educate, and it helps customers identify the benefits and features of your services.

Helps close the sale. Advertising builds traffic, moves merchandise, provides incentives to act now, and makes it easy for customers to connect with you when contact information is included.

Builds brand preference. Advertising improves a brand's reputation and preference level among consumers; purchasing a familiar brand helps guarantee satisfaction, while buying an unfamiliar brand's product is a risk. Retaining customers costs less than finding a new ones.

Repetition leads to recognition and creates loyalty. The more often you advertise, the more frequently consumers will think about you and consider your business in purchasing decisions. Advertising helps you let customers know what's new and special about your services. Advertising also reinforces with buyers that they made a good decision, increasing the odds they will be happy with their purchase and buy from you again.

It just works! Thousands of manufacturers, retailers and service businesses advertise every day because advertising works! Consumers are always more aware of marketed businesses and products.
