

E-mail from Greg R. Mathews of Valleyford, Wash:

Question. Do the Indians live in the United States of America? Are they a separate nation? Do they break the laws of the state they are located? Do they pay taxes? You want to talk about discriminations Dave take a close and get out more often. Isn't it about time the joined the rest of us or have there separate nation and with that be self supporting and cut the cord. I know I have heard the crying about it being there land so if you agree please be the first one to step up and give them the deed to your land if you have any. That was many years ago and not only the Indians got run over but so did a lot of other people in the land grab times but how long to we have to pay for this. Why not bill them for roads and technology that the white man has built and the medical you can go on for days on this subject. Just let them be separate nation but with out our support they want there cake and eat it too. I think in this thin skinned left wing news Kirk might have used a better choice of words but I to have seen the media reporters think they are God and have been very very rude but you won't read or see that Mr... Oliveria. I my self love to go to Benewah County and might not be a bad idea to get a reputation as bit crude area. Might just keep your kind from moving in and destroying it. Have a nice day and hope your one of the first Tribal police to get the ticket.

Gregg R Mathews
Valleyford WA