

Friends of Scotchman Peaks Wilderness remind you: Mountain Goats are wild!

- Do not assume that mountain goats are tame. Respect their personal space and respect their presence as the “kings of the mountain.”
- Do not feed mountain goats. This makes them associate humans with food and sometimes even dependent on humans as a source of food.
- Do not urinate close to the trail. Goats have very little sodium in their diet and have discovered that human urine is a great source of salt.
- Do not leave your backpack unattended. Mountain goats will chew off the sweaty straps.
