

Joker's Open Letter to Washington state Rep. Matt Shea, R-Spokane Valley:

Dear Matt Shea,

I've watched your political career from afar and let me say wholeheartedly, I am a huge fan.

Unfortunately, I can't vote for you because you're living in the wrong state. This letter is an open invitation for you to move to Idaho. Bring your family.

You can win any office in Idaho. You can be governor. Your opponent probably is going to be a guy named Raul. Seriously! We'll even give you his address so you can take pictures of yourself standing in his driveway. You won't be criticized, you'll be celebrated.

You can live among like-minded people. You don't have to worry about explaining yourself to the lame stream media that is biased against patriots like yourself. When somebody cuts you off in Idaho, it's not just right, but your duty to point a weapon at him.

In Idaho, you can buy as many guns as you like. We don't tolerate undesirables. You can live as God intended – free of President Obama's radical agenda.

Did I mention there is a huge support network here too?

If you need help with your taxes, Phil Hart has you covered.

If you need help with county land use issues, Larry Spencer has got your back.

If you need legal representation, we have dozens of legal scholars – including a few who actually passed the bar.

If you need insurance, Steve Adams can hook you up.

If need help reaching people, Mary Souza is our version of Ann Coulter.

If you want to get divorced down the road and get married again, we've got dozens of churches who understand the true definition of marriage. As a bonus, I should tell you that Idaho is a state where women know their place – walking two steps behind their man.

If you want to make big changes happen quickly, we've got a well-organized, highly armed militia waiting for your orders.

You need to move out of that liberal swamp known Spokane Valley. You belong here. We need your strength, your values and most importantly your vision. Idaho needs you,

The Joker.
