

Verizon

10:49 AM

CMLG

Glad I was here in person for the post call debrief. Rolf and the DMs were the only other ones at EMC. they are going to communicate these results to the other 4 CMs and the Mayor (possibly with a redo of this briefing). Their goal is to have unity on a repeal and that would mean triangulating any of the core 4 who aren't in agreement.

Call into this number now.

3195272980

No code

Had to jump off. My bottom line is: repeal.

A replacement may be in

iMessage

Verizon

10:49 AM

CMLG

A replacement may be in the cards but not now. We need to get rid of this albatross and then quietly work to figure out what takes its place that will also drive people who will vote for existing 7 CMs to turn out to vote for the replacement too.

But I'm thinking this is a November 2019 strategy.

Taking off. Later!

I agree completely and with everything you said on the call

Sent as Text Message

TM kept talking about needing an alternative measure. I think that is not

iMessage

Egan v. City of Seattle_034622

TM kept talking about needing an alternative measure. I think that is not viable with 6/10 people in March saying we don't need more City resources

Sent as Text Message

Agree it's the mayors turn to lead without abdicating council responsibilities of course

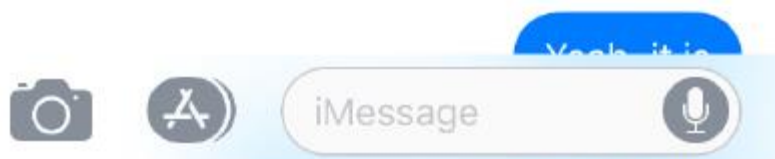

Sent as Text Message

Have a good flight!

Sent as Text Message

Sat, Jun 9, 7:44 PM

Yeah. I think TM is being overly optimistic, which I admire but then there's reality. What a mess.

Egan v. City of Seattle_034623

CMLG

Yeah, it is

I'm gonna be on the mayors staff like crazy because they might scoop council on repeal. Her favorables are much better than council and I imagine she's feeling emboldened

As she should.

Because she is.

Also, Sejal, Lindsey, Beth and I are working on messaging in response to Tuesday presser re: petitions

She's still in honeymoon period. Not long before the shit will be all over her face too

iMessage

Verizon 10:55 AM

CMLG

too

And we should allow an opportunity for that to happen rather than attempting to own it. It's time for us to swallow our medicine. "We" fucked this up. Royally.

Yeah

I agree with what you said earlier: council tried to show leadership. People didn't like our plan. Time for someone else to step up

Sadly, the policy is right. Our timing, however, was off. It'll occur but we need to socialize people to what we've done, what we could

iMessage

Egan v. City of Seattle_034625

Verizon 10:55 AM

CMLG

Sadly, the policy is right. Our timing, however, was off. It'll occur but we need to socialize people to what we've done, what we could do, the need and the real lack of resources. Then we need to give them the choice to support those additional resources. Right now I'm in "protect the Ed Levy mode."

It breaks my heart that more homeless people will die before the privileged voter is ready to act. It's nauseating actually.

Yeah. We and others came to support the EHT over a period of intellectual engagement with the issue of both homelessness and our taxation options. The

iMessage

Verizon 10:55 AM

CMLG

Yeah. We and others came to support the EHT over a period of intellectual engagement with the issue of both homelessness and our taxation options. The public needs a similar education campaign to get on board

We live to fight another day, politically, but it's tragic how many people will continue to suffer until more people are willing to take real action.

Mon, Jun 11, 2:08 PM

Has CS reviewed the statement or should I send to him?

Reviewed

iMessage

Egan v. City of Seattle_034627

Verizon

10:55 AM

CMLG

our taxation options. The public needs a similar education campaign to get on board

We live to fight another day, politically, but it's tragic how many people will continue to suffer until more people are willing to take real action.

Mon, Jun 11, 2:08 PM

Has CS reviewer the statement or should I send to him?

Reviewed

Please share with him.

On it

iMessage

Egan v. City of Seattle_034628